Airservices statement to ANAO Report on the procurement of the ICCPM to assist on the OneSKY Australia Program

Airservices has accepted all the recommendations made by the ANAO in its report.

Airservices acknowledges it can improve its procurement processes and better manage perceived conflicts of interest.

Actions to address each of the recommendations made by the ANAO are near completion.

While Airservices recognises improvements can be made with respect to procurement, we have full confidence in the tender evaluation process established for the OneSKY Australia Program and are satisfied that the governance arrangements surrounding the tender evaluation were extremely robust.

We look forward to progressing the implementation of Australia's next generation civil-military air traffic management system, which is critical for the continued growth of Australia's aviation sector.
